

Reading in HSS

The resources in Reading in History and Social Studies investigate fiction and nonfiction texts pertaining to history, geography, economics, and political science. Students are encouraged to analyze primary source documents (such as newspaper accounts of Jesse James) to form their own hypothesis. Important fictional stories in history, such as Cinderella, are explored from a variety of cultural perspectives. Additional resources challenge students to examine how journalism is distinct from other types of storytelling. Text structure, point of view, and reasoning are among the additional topics covered in Reading in HSS.

Topics and resources in the following areas:

- Conventions of Standard English
- Knowledge of Language and its Conventions
- Vocabulary Acquisition and Use

Filter by Grade Type Sort by Popularity

Videos (283)

- Using Reference Materials to Correctly Spell Words | No Nonsense Grammar
Some words may sound like other words, but using the...
PBS LearningMedia
Grades 1-5
- The Secret Life of Scientists & Engineers | Jean Berko Gleason
Meet psycholinguist Jean Berko Gleason in these videos from NOVA's...
NOVA
Grades 6-12
- Between the Lions - Joy Learno: Turnip
Hear Joy Learno interview some root vegetables about how they differ from other vegetables,...
Between the Lions Series
Grades PreK-1

Find PreK-12th grade videos, lessons, interactive experiences, and printable activities:

<http://bit.ly/ReadHistoryPBSLM>

